

Future Yorkville Schools Parent

Congratulations!

The Board of Education, administration, and staff of Yorkville Community Unit School District 115 wish you the very best as you embark on the greatest journey ever, parenthood! We can think of no greater way to celebrate the birth of a future Yorkville Fox than to start your child off learning the joy, and importance, of reading.

Please call the District 115 Administrative Center at 630-553-4382 and let us know about the new addition to your family so we can provide you with a very special children's book. We hope that you will consider the book the first of many you will choose to read and share with your child.

Research has shown that families who encourage and support reading in the home—beginning at birth—give their children the greatest opportunities for their future. When reading is established at an early age, children develop a love and interest in reading that persists a lifetime. This is sure to have a profound effect on your child's future.

The book we have selected, "I Wish You More" by Amy Krouse Rosenthal and Tom Lichtenheld reflects our desire for each child to have wonderful experiences and great opportunities.

Best wishes and we look forward to serving your family in Yorkville Schools in the near future.
